

I am much against the centralization of media ownership in a few rich, powerful companies. Diversity of ownership ensures objectivity by presenting different views. It is essential for survival of the representation of many sectors and of a free journalism. I strongly do not favor deregulation permitting such monopolistic combines.